Summary of State News.

FORSYTH.

An interesting revival has been in progress in King's Chapel in this place for several days.——The County Boarding House at present contains eight victims of unfortunate circumstances.——The public roads occupy the public mind and some of the public labor.——There are 23 paupers at the pauper farm, eight of whom are dangerously ill.——Some of the leading agriculturalists of Monroe county are preparing to enter the contest for the $1,000 premium at the State Fair.——Mrs. S. S. Winn, aged 65, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Job E. Taylor, on the morning of the 31st.—Monroe Advertiser.

COLUMBUS.

Pleasant showers of rain cooled off the Columbusites Monday afternoon.——Columbus, in the last three days, has received 23 bales of cotton, against 20 the entire seven days of the corresponding week last year.——Mr. C. W. Brown has bought out the interest of Mr. Martin Castan in the grocery house of Mr. G. W. Brown & Co. Mr. Castan intends removing to Atlanta, where he will engage in the milling business.—Sun.

A colored husband the other day, who resides some nine miles out of Columbus, tried to stop an eloping wife with a double barrel shot gun and half a pint of squirrel shot. The way the old lady got over dirt after the first shot was a caution to an ordinary race horse, and before second barrel could be brought to bear, nothing short of a rifled cannon could have reached her. The woman laid her complaint, together with a few handsful of shot, which the had collected from her shoulder and arms, before a magistrate, and the husband now regrets, in jail, that he had not tried a small sized torpedo.

AUGUSTA.

Recorder Crump is still quite sick, and Mayor Estes presided in his place at the Recorder's Court Monday morning. Only two cases were tried.——Judge Clairborne Snead still dispenses justice in the County Court to the great disgust of law breakers in a small way.——The remains of Robert Campbell were brought from Clarksville to Augusta Monday afternoon, and were interred on Tuesday in the "Cottage Cemetery." Mr. Campbell has resided in Augusta, with the exception of a few years, ever since 1802. For a long time he was Vice-President of the Liberian Colonization Society.—Constitutionalist.

LUMPKIN.

The game of base-ball that was played at Providence on Saturday last, was won by the Providence Club. The "Athletics" did their level best but were unable to cope with their opponents.——The fine residence of Mrs. Jane Walder, who lives in the Pan Handle district, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday last, together with nearly all her household furniture and effects.——A negro claiming to be from Columbus, did some practicing on Mr. Fontaine's place this week. Dennis Monroe, another darkey, happened to get in the way, and caught the ball just over his left eye, which was a bad joke on his eye. The Columbus darkey has eloped.——The negro boy, Peter Jones, who was shot by a young white man named James Lewis, some three or four weeks ago, died on Monday last. The murderer has not been heard from since he did the shooting.—Independent.

GRIFFIN.

Sheriff Connell received a letter from Bear Creek Monday, stating that the negro Bob Hardaway, who was taken out of the jail of this county last week to be carried to that of Henry, had escaped near McDonough. A reward of $25 is offered for his recapture.——On Sunday evening, the 3d instant, Miss Susie C. Alford, of Guntersville, Ala., was married at the residence of Joseph D. Boyd in Griffin to Captain W. A. Fuller, of Atlanta.—News.

A spirit of revival is abroad in the country around Griffin. The people are being converted so fast that sinners are becoming very scarce.

MACON.

A small sized fight took place on the avenue, Monday afternoon. The Mayor heard the details Tuesday morning.——A young German carpenter of Macon had a sun-stroke on Monday morning. Fortunately it was not severe, and he soon recovered.——A few afternoons ago, a little daughter of Colonel Mangham ventured in the yard of Mr. Henz, and was seized by a vicious dog, kept on the lot, and dragged down the steps some distance into the yard. Before the dog could injure the child seriously, however, a young man named Walter Adams came to the rescue, and succeeded in beating him off, thus saving the little girl's life.—Telegraph and Messenger.

SAVANNAH.

The yacht Nautilus was raffled on Saturday night, and won by Mr. Henry R. Rensehart, throwing forty-one. The yacht is valued at $500.——The celebrated York case came up for trial in the Superior Court on Monday. York was indicted by the grand jury some time ago, for cruelty to his son, a boy of twelve years of age, whom he had chained in a room in his house where he left him for nearly three months. The boy's very bad character was proven, and the jury found the defendant not guilty.——A row occurred Monday at No. 2, Atlantic and Gulf Railroad, in which a white man, named J. W. Clarke, agent of the road, was shot in the groin and seriously wounded by an unknown negro.——The Savannah Republican Blues have decided to enter as a contestant for the prize at the Macon Fair.—Advertiser and Republican.

Madame Lucca's Divorce.

Berlin papers contain a letter from Baron Rhaeden, the divorced husband of Mdme. Lucca, repudiating and denouncing what he terms the villainous piece of rascality practiced upon him in New York. He says: "Leaving untouched all other shameful antecedents, I last autumn laid before the proper court in Berlin a complaint for divorce on the ground of malicious abandonment, and this proceeding is taking its regular course. The accusation raised against me, and through which, in connection with perjury and other crimes, success has apparently been obtained, I declare to be most perfect untruths, as was also the hearsay declarations attributed to a witness who was not even named. The reason for hastening proceedings commenced in such an unheard of manner and by this sort of violence in New York, can only be found in the news reported in the journals that Madame Lucca had already again been married to Major Von Wallhofel." The Baron denies having received notice of the proceedings begun for divorce in New York, and states that he has moved in the court, which granted the decree, for its annulment.

☞ Sixteen years ago a North Carolina father, who knew the virtues of the rod, thrashed his big boy and sent him out to hoe corn. The first news of him since was last week, when he returned from California with $38,000 on his hoe. When you want a boy to hoe corn always "lick" him first.

☞ The people of New Orleans and at Louisiana have been too busy for the last seven or eight years with their party politics and their quarrels and fights over the public plunder to pay much attention to any other business. The consequence is this extraordinary increase of empty houses and stores in the commercial metropolis of the State.

☞ "I don't believe in spiritualism. I think this: If a man goes to hell he can't come back here; if he goes to heaven, he doesn't want to."—Heated Street Discussion.

BALTIMORE, August 6.—Hugh Gelston, a prominent business man, is dead, aged 79.

FOREIGN.

SPAIN.

Reported Capture of Cadiz from the Carlists--Germany will Protect her People in Spain.

WASHINGTON, August 6.—The Navy Department received a telegram to-day from Captain Wells, commander of the Shenandoah, dated Cadiz, August 5, in which he says that Cadiz is in posession of the government forces. The insurgents surrendered without fighting. The city is tranquil.

He says nothing about his conduct in that port. For this and other reasons, the Department does not credit the recent telegraphic statement of the 4th that he ordered the Spanish Insurgent frigate, Vella Demadred, to abstain from hostilities, and that the vessel remained at anchor under the guns of the Shenandoah.

BERLIN, August 6.—The German government has instructed its representatives in Spain to co-operate with the English and French representatives for the protection of foreigners and their property, even if force has to be employed.

The cholera is raging in Chiaps.

The governments gains heavily in the Congressional election.

GERMANY.

BERLIN, August 6.—The Crown Prince, Frederick William of Germany, is visiting King Oscar of Sweden.

ENGLAND.

Highly Important Political News--The Conservative Return to Power Foreshadowed.

Gladstone's Retiracy Probable.

NEW YORK, August 6.—A London special says that the election at Greenwich to fill the vacant seat in the House of Commons resulted in a conservative triumph. This is the first instance since 1863 of a conservative candidate being elected for that borough.

The result, which was not altogether unexpected, caused great depression in Liberal ranks in well informed circles. It is accepted as virtually deciding the political campaign. It is an almost certain indication that the Conservatives will return to power after the approaching general election with a fair working majority.

It is already stated on good authority that Gladstone will not seek re-election at the hands of his Greenwich constituents, and that he contemplates retiring finally from Parliamentary life.

☞ The Rev. O. J. Cowles computes the cost of strong drinks consumed in Oshkosh in one year at $356,000, without including wine. He also says that the cost of flour, boots and shoes, meats and church and city expenses cost but $367,000—or $11,000 more than liquor. The reverend arithmetician considers it a startling fact. So it is!

☞ "Kate," of Brooklyn, has been to Saratoga and just returned home. Kate learns something everywhere, and what she learned at Saratoga is that the people who spend most money at watering-places are the old men with young wives.

☞ Miss Francis Willard has been appointed Professor of Esthetips in the Woman's College of the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., at a salary of $1,800, which is to be increased to $2,000 in 1874, $2,200 in 1875, and $2,400 in 1876.

☞ Work on the Brisbane pneumatic tube to connect the Government printing office with the capitol was resumed this week.

WILSON A WRECK.

Matt. Carpenter to do the Work--The Press to be Muzzled for the Benefit of the Thieves.

Chicago Journal Washington Letter.

"DYING A-TOP."

Dean Swift's sad confession that he was dying a-top is very suggestive to the brain-workers of our time. From an intimate friend of the Vice President I learn the full truth about his health. Mr. Wilson is in a very critical condition. His labors in the Presidential campaign, as is known, were very great. He has always seemed to think that he carried the Republican party upon his shoulders, and that he would be personally responsible for its defeat. His efforts were enormous. He spoke and traveled constantly, without interruption, and when the issue was known he was very much wearied. After the election he frequently remarked to his friends that he never felt such fatigue of mind in his whole life. It is possible, too, that he thought that his great services were not fully appreciated by the members of his party. At all events it is quite certain that at times he was annoyed that he did not personally receive greater public consideration at the hands of the leaders of the party. He had not recovered from his fatigue, and this annoyance, when Congress convened.

HIS NERVOUS PROSTRATION—CAMPAIGN CREDIT MOBILIER, AND PARLIAMENTARY LAW.

His duties as Vice President were practically new to him. For it is a well known fact that, notwithstanding his long public career, Mr. Wilson has really much less practical experience as a presiding officer than men who have been a much shorter time in office. To become perfect in the knowledge of parliamentary rules it is necessary to be a constant student of them. Parliamentary knowledge does not come by a trial. This is a study to which few Congressmen devote themselves. It requires a special taste and great industry of a peculiar sort. This taste and industry few Congressmen ever have or ever can command. It is not a rare thing to hear of a man of vast influence, who is a good student in certain branches, publicly declare that he has no personal knowledge of parliamentary rules. Hence it is that men who know the tricks of the floor are so few, and that those who do possess this knowledge have a dominating influence in parliamentary questions. Although it has been the ambition of Mr. Wilson's life to become Vice President, as was illustrated by his touching order that his wife's grave should be crowned with flowers immediately upon his election, he has not had the experience in presiding, and does not possess the parliamentary skill of Schuyler Colfax, of Matt. Carpenter, or of Senator T. W. Ferry, of Michigan. The last two were opposing candidates for the Presidency pro tem. of the Senate. Mr. Wilson is quite nervous in this particular, and, in order to entertain between his election and the assembling of Congress, devoted himself to the serious study of parliamentary law and rules. He had hardly taken his seat when his nervousness was increased by the tragic comedy of the Credit Mobilier investigation. It is known that the incidental mention of his name in that connection gave him great annoyance. Besides the fact that his own name was mentioned in connection with the matter, he was often heard to remark that the nation and the party seemed to have fallen upon evil days, and he exhibited much anxiety on this account. This new cause of agitation, added to his fatigue from the campaign, and to his worry in his new office, gave his nervous system, which was utterly unstrung, the preparation for the shock that was to come. The blow fell, as it now so frequently and terribly falls. It has left Mr. Wilson almost a wreck. There is no doubt about it. He has had a very serious paralytic stroke. The stroke has been so severe as at present to disfigure his face. His mouth is drawn somewhat to one side, and his left eye slightly protrudes from the socket. He is in such feeble condition that his physicians have not yet commenced to treat him for his paralysis. His present treatment is designed to invigorate his system so that he may be prepared to endure the more severe treatment to which he must soon be subjected. He is under the constant care of his physicians, and the disposition of nearly every hour of the time is provided for by them. He is forbidden all mental toil and all exciting exertion. He is kept upon a careful diet, and is obliged to ride a certain number of hours each day, and to retire at a stated time each night. When he shall have sufficiently recovered, it is now the intention to make a sore at the base of the brain, by means of a seton, as the only possible cure for his disorder. The physicians have concluded that he has a blood-clot on the brain. His physicians say that they have hope that his general health will soon be in such condition as to permit of this radical treatment for paralysis. They also hope, and tell him, that he will be able to be present in his seat in the Senate at the opening of Congress. It is, however, feared by those most familiar with the matter, that these hopes are vain hopes. It now seems hardly possible, without a miracle, that Henry Wilson can take his seat next winter. Indeed the anxiety of his most intimate friends is still so great that the gravest apprehension exists concerning his ultimate recovery.

MATT. CARPENTER PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

There is now little doubt that Matt. H Carpenter will preside over the Senate next winter in his capacity as President pro tempore. Mr. Carpenter has many excellent qualities for this office, and is a much better parliamentarian than Henry Wilson. Matt. Carpenter is courteous, quick, attentive and impartial, and, as presiding officer, will doubtless facilitate the business of the country with as much satisfaction to the Senators as Henry Wilson. This will be the first time in many years that the West has had a permanent presiding officer. Senator Anthony, of Rhode Island, has filled the office as President pro tem. for a very long period. Last winter, at a caucus, it was determined that this office should be given to the West. The choice lay between Senator Ferry, the new Senator from Michigan, and Matt. Carpenter. Mr. Ferry is a most excellent presiding officer, having learned the mysterious art of parliamentary domination during long service as a presiding officer in the Michigan Legislature. It was, however, known that Matt. Carpenter much desired the place, and it was finally determined that it should be given to Mr. Carpenter, while Mr. Ferry should receive the chairmanship of an important committee.

THE PRESS BASTILE.

So Senator Carpenter became Vice President pro tempore, and Mr. Ferry was made Chairman of the Press Committee. This is a new, mysterious committee which is to regulate the press and correspondents and to keep them within what the distinguished Senators consider proper bounds. Mr. Ferry is not a very savage man, and is not well qualified by nature for the position of Chief Tyrant. Still he holds the keys of the bastile, and will perhaps cause us all to feel, for he has the power, that

The fear of hell is the hangman's whip
To goad a wretch in order.

Answering a Girl.

The Boston Traveler remarks that though it has no bureau for answering correspondents, yet interrogatories are occasionally received, the latest of which is from a callow youth named Carpenter. Carpenter says: Two years ago I was in love with a girl, and as we got on well together we would probably have been engaged. One night she asked me if I thought another girl pretty. I replied conscientiously that I thought her very pretty. My girl the next day cut me dead, and the only word I received in explanation was a message through another girl that I might go and sit on the other girls' door steps if I wanted to, but not to come to her house again. Last summer I was paying attention to another girl, and when one night she asked me about another girl's looks, I wasn't to be caught, and so said I thought she was a homely, forward minx. She never spoke to me again, and I found out afterward that the other girl was her cousin. At present I

Christ Church, Alexandria, the sacred and time-honored building in which the Father of his Country was wont to worship, was recently entered by some vandalic and sacrilegious scoundrel, who broke up the silver communion service and collection plates, tore up the bibles, hymnals, prayer-books, etc., and took the plate off Washington's pew, which was the only article carried away from the church.

Prince Bismarck lives in the summer at Barzin a life of dreamy quietness. He devotes himself to the improvement of his estate and to the extension of his modest house which cannot appropriately be called a castle. Old Count Podewils owned Barzin at the close of the last century. Although very rich he was unusually unpretending and cultivated the greatest simplicity. The Blumenthals, who became after him the owners of the estate, made it more beautiful. As Barzin life is very reserved, and members of the family only are received. It is no place for strangers, as there is but one poor inn there, and neither wine nor beer can be had. English correspondents used to come to Barzin in former years but the tavern has disenchanted them.

Atlanta Growth.

In our local column our Atlanta readers will find an article giving the tax statistics of the present year in comparison with those of the last year. The figures will prove interesting. They practically show the rapidity of Atlanta growth.

The increase in all property in Fulton over last year was over a million and a quarter. The increase in city property was nearly four hundred thousand. The increase in merchandize in Atlanta was nearly four hundred thousand. The increase in children in the county between six and eighteen years was 380. The property returned by negroes has increased over $35,000.

Motley, the Historian.

Daily do we see announcements that some public man has had a stroke of paralysis. Last night's dispatches tell us that John Lothrop Motley, the historian, has had one side paralyzed.

There is a grave lesson in all this. This thing simply tells the tale of overtaxed brains and over-worked systems. The result is plain, sure, inevitable, identical. Nature revenges the [illegible] done to her laws. Brain toilers the world over need more rest. Too much work is attempted. The powers are overstrained and give way in an unexpected and irrevocable moment.

We need by man of thought more study of the physical capacities of the human frame and an adaptation of life to the actual standard of toil.

The Scourge in East Tennessee.

The cholera clings most constantly to East Tennessee; and whether correctly or not, the people of the stricken territory attribute it to the limestone formation which affects the water they use. Jonesboro is the latest and greatest sufferer—more so than even Greenville. It is believed, however, that the worst is over. On Saturday there were five deaths and on Sunday, only three. There were twenty-three cases in the place on Sunday, but most of them will recover. Among the victims of Monday was Colonel George E. Graham, editor and proprietor of the Jonesboro Flag. He bravely died at his post. From the first appearance of the disease to the day of his death he labored untiringly in alleviating the sufferings of his fellow creatures.

Two cholera deaths occurred in Knoxville on Sunday—Mrs. Provost and Mrs. Donahue.

Mrs. Armstrong, living near Telford's a railroad station five miles west of Jonesboro, was suddenly attacked with cholera on Sunday night, and died within twenty-four hours.

Three members of a family living at Midway were attacked with the dread "prevailing," and died, when the four remaining members fled to Limestone station and have since been attacked with the disease in a very violent form.

At the Blue Ridge Springs, about two miles from Midway, eight or nine cholera deaths have occurred. One entire family was swept away—husband, wife and one child.

At the Sevier Springs, about one mile from Midway, eleven have died of cholera. The wife and three children of one household died in less than forty-eight hours.

The Blue Springs, as well as the Sevier Springs, are of the very purest limestone water—cold, pearly and sparkling, and both places have hitherto been remarkably healthy. Dr. Rader, the physician, and a very good and successful one, too, and who has been indefatigable in his labors at the bed-side of the sick and dying, says that he has had no regular case of cholera where the persons used either slate or cistern water.

Mr. Rogers, of London, a carpenter, while engaged in building a barn was attacked, and died the next day.

Mr. Cline died of cholera in Chattanooga on Monday, the 4th inst. He was attended by Dr. Hyshop, and the case is reported in the Times of that city. The same paper contains the annual mortuary report of the City Physician, Dr. J. H. Van Deman. In his review of the epidemic in Chattanooga, he says that the disease made its most fearful havoc where the shale beds of limestone had the thinnest coverings of soil.

The people of Middle and East Tennessee firmly believe that limestone water is at the bottom of their cholera afflictions; and one town at least propose to guard against a future scourge by bringing in freestone water from a long distance and at a great cost.

Politics Getting Lively.

We have reports to-night, from three political conventions. Politics is waxing a great deal more lively.

The Conservatives in Virginia are having a large and earnest convention, and we augur good things from their action. The only marplots possible are the Wises and Mosbys, and others of that ilk, who could'nt swallow Greeley; but find little difficulty in helping Grant and the ultra Radical cause. It is rumored, however, that Mosby is for the Conservative side this time. Wise is ready for independent candidacy, but may be choked off.

In Massachusetts the Labor Reformers have had a small convention, in which they do little else than to disavow politics and sympathize with the farmers and their cheap transportation movement. These reformers do not appear to be aggressive enough, and will do nothing.

The ringing note of political cheer comes from Ohio. The real Democracy is holding convention, and a big, bold, hearty one it appears to be. It is giving out no uncertain note, but sounding the bugle-blast for a square-out Democratic fight. One of the speakers eloquently says that the "old guard dies but never surrenders." This is the policy for the country. Comparing the magnitude and enthusiasm of this body of Ohio Democrats with the small new party convention that has just adjourned, we see that the main portion of the party is on the straight Democratic alignment.

Good for the Ohio Democrats.

Scattergood's Chief D'Oeuvre.

The reason why Scattergood was the enemy of the editor of the Daily Annihilator was this: Scattergood, it seems, claimed to be an artist, and as he desired to receive commendatory notice from the press, he sent to the editor of the Annihilator one of his finest paintings entitled "Young Lochinvar," and representing that cavalier mounted upon a horse and clasping his bride in his arms, as he galloped away, while the bride's father stood at the right of the picture in a furious rage. It so happened that the editor was out of town, and the duty of noticing the picture devolved upon the assistant editor who didn't know Scattergood. He misapprehended the peculiar motive of the work, and the next day fired away in the Annihilator in this ruinous manner:

"We have just received from our townsman, Mr. J. P. Scattergood, a novel and unique design for a circus poster, which is creditable to the artist's ingenuity. It apparently represents the famous equestrian, Professor Singarelli, dressed in blue tights, doing his wonderful bare-back act, while he holds a lady member of the company in his arms. The horse is represented dashing furiously around the ring, the audience being concealed by the clouds of tan and saw dust created by his fast flying hoofs. The tout ensemble is excellent; but we may be permitted to suggest that the popular fancy would be more certainly struck if the clowns were placed at the left of the picture and looked less like a man who is mad. We are sorry, too, that Singarelli was not represented in his great double back somersault act, rather than as upon shore. That is his most splendid feat. Before the picture is printed and put on the fences we would advise that both the girl's eyes should be made of the same size, the Singarelli's mouth should be placed in front, and not more around under his ear, and that the off hind leg of the horse should be made about fifteen inches shorter and have the spavin swelling removed from his hock. We would like to have his neck made less like that of a camelopard, but that is not of so much consequence. With these exceptions the work is perfect."

Scattergood did not call for an explanation. He emigrated immediately and settled in the West, where he opened a grocery store. Art, he said, received no encouragement in this barbarous country.

A Balm Thing for Grant's Chaplain.

The following is an extract from a private letter written at sea, on the voyage from San Francisco to Japan, to a Connecticut friend:

"Steamer Japan, June 2, 1873.—We have two ministers on board, and the ship still floats. We have Dr. Newman, chaplain of the United States Senate, and pastor of President Grant's church. He is appointed Inspector of Consuls in Cuba and Japan, and to go around the world at government expense. His arduous duties are to visit each consulate on his way, eat and drink a couple of days with each, and pass on—thus saving all hotel bills. For these trying services he draws $8,600 a year and traveling expenses. His wife, who is with him, draws from the government $3,000 a year each and her traveling expenses. His private secretary, Hobart pickers, months less of absence from his post as chaplain of the Senate, and draws his salary all the time; and I suppose he draws his salary as pastor of his church in Washington. Who would not be minister of the Gospel to Ulysses I? How different is all this worldly profit and pleasure from the character and lot of the honest minister of my boyhood, with his $300 a year? But I suppose we must allow something for the wear and tear of conscience (?) in a court minister to Ulysses I. "The laborer is worthy of his hire.—Hartford Times, July 30.

The Presidential Election.

Senator Morton's Plan of Electing the President and Vice-President of the United States.

Senator Morton arrived here to-day for the purpose of availing himself of the facilities of the Congressional Library and certain unprinted records of Congress in preparing his report for the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, of which he is chairman, upon the proposed election of the President and Vice-President of the United States by direct vote of the people, instead of by the intervention of Electoral Colleges.

The Senator is accounted by the committee clerk, and intends to devote the ensuing days of his sojourn to arduous research and annotation upon the matter now uppermost in his political thoughts. He intimates that his bill and supporting speech of last session contain the substance of his mature thought and investigation upon the subject, but recognizing the truth of the remark of his industrious predecessor in this particular field of reform, Senator Benton, that a select body like Congress is always inert on questions which propose to restore to the body of the people privileges which they have granted away, he intends to prepare and submit for the adoption of his committee such a report will go ringing through the country and arouse press and people to the demanding either of a constitutional amendment, proposed by Congress to the State Legislatures, or by the State Legislatures to each other and to Congress. The Senator, too, finds no cause of regret in the fact that for once in his Senatorial career he is engaged in an important work that is neither sectional nor partisan, and which nothing but the worst political malignancy can construe into a design for his advancement before the country. At the best, he claims no more than a ready perception of popular discontent with nominating conventions that cannot much longer endure, and a willingness to meet such a sentiment half way. Mr. Morton's plan of reform, which is that of dividing the States into Presidential districts of equal population and contiguous territory, and giving each district a single vote for President and Vice-President, would, in his opinion, if adopted before the summer of 1876, strike such a blow at the caucus tyranny of party conventions that Cæsarism, if there should be any danger of it under the existing electoral plan would be impossible, or, what is the same thing, possible only in the event of the masses being as enamored of the idea of perpetual office holding as the army of office holders now in possession. Senator Morton, in his reports, intends to go back to the debates in the Constitutional Convention over the mode of electing the President and Vice President, and show how the best and most logical minds there present, at the head of whom was the illustrious Franklin, pointed out the inconveniences and dangers of the method that prevailed, and argued eloquently for entrusting the people directly with the determination of the one question that really concerned them more than any other in the federal system. He will show, too, the mistaken reasons on which the conservatives in the convention carried the point and fashioned their Presidential election upon the aristocratic models of the Venetian and Genoese republics, while fearing that they had already conferred too much direct political power upon the general mass of the people. He will refer to the cases of Jefferson and Burr and Adams and Jackson to illustrate his assertion that the Electoral College system, besides being useless as a medium of selecting men of better character and attainments than could be discerned by enthusiastic and unthinking voters, can become, through intrigue and dangerous as to precipitate a civil war, and that such danger grows with the lapse of time, and is, by the nature of the system, more dangerous now than ever, and will be so hereafter. The district is supported by the Senator in preference to the plan preferred by others of giving every voter in every State a direct and independent vote for President and Vice President, because it gives more practical force to the wishes of contiguous communities and interests, and restrains the power of such log-rolling combinations as carry prohibitory tariffs and fraudulent internal improvement bills. This was the plan recommended by an illustrious Senate committee that sat upon the question nearly fifty years ago and brought in a report that contrasted the merits of both plans of voting; and though the logical argument is admitted to lie apparently on the side of individual voting, the practical view of the question demonstrates that the result of a vote by districts organized as proposed would be much nearer a pure, impartial expression of the popular will. Senator Morton expects to carry his committee unanimously for his plan, and hopes to advance the measure considerably before Congress early next session.

CARLIST LEADERS.

Correspondence of Manchester Guardian.]

BARCELONA, July 13.—Don Alphonso is about twenty-eight years of age, has regular features, dark-brown eyes, slightly curved nose, and wears a short beard and moustache. His countenance leaves the observer with an unsatisfactory impression of apathetic indolence and weak-mindedness, giving but little promise of energy of action, and contrasting herein strikingly with his fair spouse.

The Prince was dressed with extreme simplicity, wearing a short black coat and vest, scarlet pantaloons, and short riding boots. The Princess Dona Maria, of the royal house of Braganza, is a young lady of eighteen years of age, with fair golden locks, beautiful deep blue, almost violet, eyes, and slightly curved delicate nose, and a dazzling fair complexion, as yet untarnished by the burning sun of Spain. When in repose her countenance has an air of extreme dignity, almost hauteur; but when engaged in conversation her whole expression softens; and when, ever and anon, breaking into a sunny smile, she becomes irresistibly attractive. Her voice is sweet and melodious, exercising an involuntary charm upon the listener. She is personally very energetic and high minded, and has invariably given proofs of great courage in very critical and trying moments. By the soldiers she is much esteemed and respected for her kind heart and the sympathy she has on many occasions manifested towards them. She is naturally enthusiastically devoted to the cause of Don Carlos, to promote the success of which she has now for months participated in all the fatigues and dangers of the campaign, bearing the greatest hardships with cheerful fortitude, ever a bright example to her followers and contrasting, it must be confessed, most favorably with her indolent, apathetic husband. In fact, if the real truth must be told, Dona Maria is the real generalissimo of her husband's forces, giving the secret spur to every enterprising and energetic action of any moment; for, after due study of his Royal Highness Don Alphonso, I am sorry to say that the only thing that can be said to his advantage is that he is possessed of great good nature, his the pink of courtesy, a very fair horseman, and —voila tout. He is a true Bourbon, perhaps without the greater vices of the family, which is the most that can be said in his favor. Dona Maria is, as will have been anticipated, an admirable horsewoman. She is also a good pedestrian, of which last winter she gave abundant proof, marching on one occasion for eight hours up to her knees in snow, with the thermometer 5 degrees below freezing point. She was mounted, on her entrance into Caserras, on a beautiful bay, which she guided with consummate grace and skill. She was dressed in a hussar-like violet jacket trimmed with fur, a long riding skirt of similar color, and wore a coquettish pair of riding boots of patent leather, with gold spurs. For head-covering she wore a white hat, with long gold tassel drooping gracefully over the right ear. On her jacket shone the gold star of Portugal, while on the sleeve of her jacket were the gold stars and stripes of a general. In her right hand she held a dainty little riding whip, which with a small beautifully ornamented revolver at her left side, completed her costume.

The Consecutive Convention Organized and a Great Success.

RICHMOND, August 6.—The Conservative State Convention met here to-day at noon, in the Theatre Hall—the interior of which especially the stage, was decorated with flags of various nations; also State and National colors. The orchestra, chairs and parquette were filled with delegates—nearly four hundred. The remainder of the large building was utterly crowded with spectators. The stage was occupied by a large number of prominent personages, representatives of the press from the city and other points in the State and out. The Convention was called to order by Hon. R. T. Daniels, chairman of the State Committee, on whose motion M. G. Harman, of Augusta county, was chosen temporary chairman. A committee consisting of two from each Congressional district was appointed on credentials.

During the absence of the committee, Hon. Robert Ould was called upon and addressed the convention in a speech of welcome, reviewing Hughes' speech at Lynchburg and repudiating his platform.

Speeches were also made by Hon. A. M. Keeley, Mayor of Richmond; ex-Governor Robert L. Montague and others.

LATER.

A recess was taken till 4 o'clock, at which hour the Committee on Credentials reported.

Several hours were consumed in discussing and amending the report.

The question of appointing a committee on permanent organization gave rise to a debate as to the manner of formation of the committee; some contending for each Congressional delegation to have the privilege of selecting three of their own number to represent them in the committee, and others for the whole committee to be appointed by the chairman. The debate was conducted amid great confusion, but finally the latter mode prevailed, and the chair appointed three from each district delegation, with the Hon. Robert Ould as chairman. The committee, thus formed, then retired.

A very decided spirit of antagonism was displayed in the various debates by the friends of Gen. J. L. Kemper and Col. Robert E. Withers, the two prominent candidates for nomination for Governor.

Recess till 8 o'clock.

A HERO OF THE RAIL

The Runaway Train on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad—Engineer Conaway Killed while Striving Desperately to put on the Brakes.

The Cumberland (Md.) newspapers give details of the terrible railroad accident which occured Sunday morning on the seventeen mile grade of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, about two miles east of Altamont and forty-three miles west of Cumberland. The Daily News says:

A "convoy" of trains of cars, loaded with stock, grain, cotton, tobacco and miscellaneous merchandise, were on their way east, when shortly after leaving Altamont engine No. 431, of which Luke Conaway was engineer, from some accidental cause became unmanageable and ran away. Of course, as the grade at that point is very considerable, the train in a few minutes had attained very high speed, stated by some of our informants to have been at the rate of fifty miles an hour. The engineer blew his whistle for brakes, but the speed of the train was not slackened. In another instant he heard the engineer of the train ahead of his blowing for brakes, denoting that his train, too, was running too fast.

Knowing that the forward train would decrease its speed or stop altogether, engineer Conaway saw that a terrible collision was inevitable, and calling to the fireman to follow him, he clambered over the tender on to the cars and ran toward the rear of the train. The fireman whose name we have been unable to learn, threw himself on his face on the "running board" on top the car next to the locomotive, and braced himself for the coming crash, entreating the engineer to follow his example. Conaway, however paid no attention to his remonstrances, but ran on till he reached the middle of the train, where he attempted to put on a brake. At this moment the locomotive struck the forward train, crashing with terrific force through twelve or fourteen cars and throwing the remainder of the train off the track, injuring some of them considerably. The track for a half a mile was scattered with the broken cars and their contents. Several cattle were killed, while corn, cotton and tobacco were strewn all over the road bed.

When the locomotive struck Engineer Conaway was thrown into the air, hurled headforemost to the ground and instantly killed. He resided in Westernport, were he leaves a wife and a family. The car to which the fireman had clung ran up and followed it through the forward train getting badly broken in the general crash, but the man escaped uninjured. In the "caboose" car of the forward train were T. Burke, conductor; Edw. Corney, brakeman, and three drovers, Mr. Martins, of Barbour county, Mr. Elliott, of Harrison county and Mr. Reynolds of Mineral county West Virginia. Messrs. Martins and Elliott were instantly killed, Brakeman Corney had his leg broken and received other injuries, and Conductor Burke and Mr. Reynolds each received severe cuts and bruises. Mr. Burke resides in Piedmont and has a family; Mr. Corney is a young man and unmarried; he also resides in Piedmont.

It is reported that the reason why Mr. Conaway's signal for brakes was not responded to was that the brakemen were asleep. We believe they escaped unhurt, and, if the rumor above alluded to is correct, their feelings on hearing that Engineer Conaway lost his life in a desperate attempt to supply their place must have been anything but pleasant. Both tracks were blocked for a long distance for several hours.

WATER WORKS.—A typographical error occurred in our notice of water works yesterday morning, by the omission of a cypher, whereby 3,000,000 gallons was reduced to 300,000. Mr. A. Murphy, President of the Board, gives the following facts in a note:

Mr. Grost is now surveying the line from South river to get the exact distance, and the difference of level between the city and a point in the river. This will be done in a few days, when we will submit it to Mr. Ketchum, the Hydraulic Engineer, who is now making practical estimates for the following sources of supply, viz: the cost of furnishing the city with one and one-half million gallons daily from South River; the same quantity from Peachtree Creek; and for one and a half and three millions daily from the Chattahoochee River.

Estimates will be furnished to the Board for their consideration, and it is presumed they will take final action and adopt one of the points named.

There appears to be no doubt that the Mayor and Council will co-operate with the Water Commissioners in providing for the early completion of the works."

Shall We Have a City Park?

Editors Constitution:

Is there not some device, plan, or interest manifested that will cause our city Council to inaugurate a movement tow'ar's the formation of a city park. This subject has been talked of by many of our best citizens, and as yet nothing has been done. Here we have a city of 30,000 inhabitants, full of energy and business—a city that is known and talked of from Maine to California—and yet we cannot lay claim to the first instance of refinement and art. Why should we not have our park beautifully laid out, where the traveler, visitor, or citizen might spend a pleasant hour, looking around amid the trees and shrubbery, with here and there a statue erected in honor of the memory of our great statesmen. Is it possible that this head-center of Georgia is to slow to move in such matters as they do, forgetting that Parks, Galleries of Art, Statuary, etc., present in themselves a degree of taste and refinement, that has made the cities of Europe world-renowned.

There is not a place in this city where people might erect a statue without placing it in an isolated position; or in the Cemetary; no place where our people can seek a pleasant walk or drive; no place, where, with small bestowal, a zoological garden could be established. In fact, no place that is calculated to show that the people of Atlanta appreciate in the least any of nature's work, refinement, art or science.

Now, sirs, I think it high time that something was being done town the improvement of a public park. The Fair Grounds will never be used as a place that will in time be as clean as a house floor, with its regularly-irregular walks, drives, lakes, lawns, bowers, etc., not a place that is trampled over every two years with machinery, stock, race horses, etc. A Park could be commenced on a small scale, and every year be increased so that in ten years it would begin to look beautiful and be a lasting ornament to the city.

Another reason why this matter should be commenced is, that a park is not made in one day, month or year, hence the necessity for immediate action. I know of a park that was once commenced by the citizens contemplated here, and before completing or laying for the grade of a certain walk or piece, or drive, and planted by such men, and the first year the owner gentleman agreed to plough and cultivate it in order to promote its growth. Now, what could be done with this as the best plan, but it was not done, and nothing was done. The grass could be secured and fenced in, and a competent landscape gardener employed by the year to improve and keep the grounds in order, carefully an one could object to the movement. Providing Wade Hot chair too heavy an expenditure at the beginning.

The main reason why this should be commenced is that it takes years to make a park and, the sooner it is begun the better for the city. Let the question be agitated until we see signs of commencement and real earnest work begun.

THE "HOLY REDEEMER" FESTIVAL.

A Fine Time Tuesday Night—Success of the Dude-picking—Nearly $200 Net Receipts—What is Being done in a Quiet Way by St. Phillip's Church, of this City.

The festival given by the mission of St. Phillip's Church, of this city, Tuesday night, was a grand success, considering the place and the means adopted. When the members of the Sabbath School of St. Phillip's determined to give this festival for the purpose of buying a lot and building a chapel on Castleberry Hill, there were misgivings as to the probable success of it. But when that good old lady, Mrs. L. B. Wright, put herself in the van, all dubiousness cleared away as the mist before the morning sun. And to this lady, we are informed, is due more than to any one else the eminent success which has resulted in the pleasant little sum of near $200 net receipts, to say nothing of the immense amount of pleasurable enjoyment afforded one and all.

A PLEASANT FEATURE

in the evening's entertainment was the feeding of a great number of poor children. Of course there were many of these present, most of whom were members of the Sabbath School. Having no money to purchase the tempting viands, which rested amid myriads of fruits and flowers, on every hand, these little indigents were made glad and happy with the invitation to eat and be merry—which they did with an avidity not only creditable, but pleasant to behold.

HOW MANY of the poor children of Castleberry Hill and its immediate vicinity, are yet to be blessed and made happy and rescued from the vile slums of idleness and filth, by the noble efforts of the Holy Redeemer, no one can conjecture.

THE PLAN ADOPTED

for carrying out the festival, in order to secure financial success, was at once novel and creditable. Each teacher contributed something for the table and paid their admission, and every child, except the very indigent, were also required to pay admission, thus casting off the loss last almost entirely. The work of preparing the table, etc., was done by the ladies of the congregation with some assistance from the gentlemen; and thus the expense of labor was saved with which to augment their slender treasury.

It is to be hoped this missionary work will be fraught with much good to the cause of Christ, and redound to the glory of those engaged in it.

Thus, in a quiet but sure way, the cause of Him, who was Himself a poor outcast and stranger in a strange land, is being advanced, and those children who have no parents, or, having them, do not derive the benefit of parental care and forethought, are being instructed in the paths of righteousness and holiness. May the good work go on.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA.

Alumni Day.

Bishop Pierce Makes a Great Speech.

Andrew A. Lipscomb, Jr.

General Gordon.

ATHENS, August 4, 1873.

The rain last evening cooled the atmosphere and the morning was fine. The chapel was again crowded. The Alumni marched in as a body.

After a prayer by Dr. Mann, Bishop Pierce arose and announced his text.—Public opinion. He said the tendency of the world was to be governed by opinion rather than law. That government governs best which governs least. Public opinion does not come from the sermon, the lecture, the press, etc., but from them all. 'Tis an exceedingly complicated affair, and takes many a shape. The fire-side sentiment does much towards forming it. The family is the embryo of society. The father of waters has his source in a mountain spring. Homes give shape to character and destiny to a country. Silent influences are the most powerful. The terrific lightning works it destruction in a moment, but its effects are local. The soundless sunbeam kisses every part of the globe.

Public opinion is also moulded by professional men. So, again, old people and young people, and all classes, modify and shape it. A single man may often make a new creation of a populace whose ideas are chaotic. Some men are gifted with a happy infirmity of reason which prepares them to conduct a bold exploit. If successful, they are demi-gods; if they fail, they are fools. Those who are successful are the pioneers to the regions where the people wanted to go. The ruling power is but the exponent of the bent of the people.

Society shapes public opinion. "I must do as the world does," is a base, malicious, ruinous maxim. The more ridiculous the decrees of society are, the more popular they oftentimes are. Then followed some of the finest humor we ever heard. For five minutes, the house gave roar after roar of laughter. Features of modern costume were held up to the severest ridicule. A boy now wears a beaver before his daddy wore shoes. The sleeve of a Miss is larger than her grandmother's skirt. He then shot some scathing rebukes at some of the vices of the social circle. He closed with a grand outburst on Southern civilization. If we lose our government, our constitution, our political position, if we lose everything else, let us hold fast to our own Southern identity.

Many declare they never heard such a speech; others say it is the grandest effort of the Bishop's life. His venerable father, Dr. Lovick Pierce, rode up here, in his feeble condition, to hear his son. The venerable gentleman looks better than we expected to see him, after an illness so severe. His constitution bears up with astonishing vigor, and his mind works yet with wonderful activity.

PHI-KAPPA SOCIETY.

Its celebration to-night was one of the most gratifying we ever witnessed. A young orator of rare talent was its representative. His subject was fortitude and he made of it a brilliant success. It was truly a literary effort. Andrew A. Lipscomb, Jr., nephew of Dr. L., is the name of the gifted young gentleman who had already, before his appearance to-night, with college honors sufficient to warrant great expectations. No one was disappointed. The "contrast between Falstaff and Hamlet," was admirably thrown out, showing that the orator had made rapid advancement in higher culture. We do not remember to have heard anything of the kind from this stage.

After this oration Mr. J. T. Buchanan, of Columbus, in a very graceful manner, delivered the society medals.

Mr. Erskine Cuthbert, a young man who will leave here with quite a flattering record, received the prize as the best debater. Messrs. Colcock and Fleming, of Augusta, received the two Junior medals and Mr. Frank Clark, of Augusta, the Sophomore medal.

GENERAL GORDON,

after repeated and enthusiastic calls from the students returning from the chapel, came out in front of the hotel, and made one of his happiest impromptu speeches. He paid a great and deserved tribute to Bishop Pierce.

Hon. H. W. Hilliard was then called upon, and responded in some pointed remarks. A. H. Cox, Esq., also made a stirring speech.

To-morrow closes one of the most enjoyable commencements we ever attended at the University.

Prof. Lipscomb is still very unwell. It is feared that he is seriously ill.

PENCILGRAMS.—Col. G. W. Adair is fitting up at his real estate office, a magnificent "counter" for the new President of the Georgia Western Railroad.

The McDonough Street Railroad line is being extended across Whitehall and up Alabama to Broad street.

Mr. Slaymaker is getting up some of the coolest opera seats out. They are easily adjusted so as to permit the passage of parties in without rumpling dresses. Would not it be the thing for DeGive's?

That meeting to organize a State Pomological Society, on the 20th, promises to be largely attended. But whose work is none the less creditable, or whose reward will be any the less sure.

Brief speeches were made by Rev. H. Quigg, Colonel J. J. Morrison and Hon. W. A. Davis, Judge McCalla, of Conyers, was loudly called for, but owing to the "noise and confusion" could not be heard by the crowd. A young lady, however, who distinctly heard his address has promised to give a full synopsis of it to The Conservatorium before long. It will be properly appreciated by some divines.

Hon. W. L. Goldsmith, Comptroller General, in response to the calls said that while he was afraid at the plow and hoe handle he had not been engaged in farming for years. He thought that farmers should direct and control their own societies. If they prospered he would prosper, and his felt a lively interest in them and their success. He thought the Lithonia Club had struck the key-note.

For their information, he would state that DeKalb county had so far exhibited, in proportion to her territory and population, the largest increase in taxable property. The increase over 1872 is $361,000, and over 1871 $631,000. He gave the following as the return of crops, etc:

Number of acres in cotton, 13,418½; or as, 14,999¾; Wheat, 3,711; Rye, 41¾; barley, 3½; oats, 4,819½; potatoes, 436¾; Irish potatoes, 18; tobacco, ¾; sorghum 71¼; Clover and grass, 43½; vineyards, 11¾; orchards 1,640; peanuts, 1; sheep, 2,231; dogs, 1,408; hogs, 5,537; horses and mules, 1,989; cattle, 4,066; cotton factories, 2, with 4,440 spindles.

Col. E. Steadman, in response to calls remarked that according to the last census, the decrease in taxable property in Georgia was 19 per cent, and in Louisiana 35 per cent, while the increase in Massachusetts was 90 per cent, and in Indiana 100 per cent. He thought it essential and important to make our own fertilizers at home and stop draining our State of money to pay out in other States for it.

On motion the society adjourned.

A GLORIOUS RESULT AT HAND.—We are pleased to see that the Chamber of Commerce, the proper organization to lead in such a duty, has taken action respecting a proper demonstration on the part of Atlanta at the completion of the Atlanta and Richmond Air-Line Railroad. Now let the citizens, if they think proper, call a meeting for the same purpose; but, above all, let the Mayo and Council take such action also as the occasion demands, at their next meeting.

There is no days to be lost, if we would show our appreciation of this great work at the proper time.

SUPREME COURT OF GEORGIA.—WEDNESDAY, 1873.—S. J. Winn, Esq., of Lawrenceville, was admitted to the Bar.

Argument of the case of Stallings vs Ivey—equity from Walton, was resumed and concluded. Billups & Brobston and J. J. Floyd, for plaintiff in error. Walker & McDaniel and Clark & Peek, for defendant in error.

No. 1. Western Circuit—John A. Griffith vs. J. H. Mitchell and C. H. Shipp, was argued. Clark & Peek, Walker & McDaniel, for plaintiff in error.

J. W. Arnold, contra.

No. 2. Western Circuit—Louisa S. Hooper vs. Evan P. Howell, guardian, was argued.

Thomas W. Hooper, Hillyer & Bro., for plaintiffs in error; Peeples & Howell, and T. M. Peeples, contra.

Pending Argument of No. 3. Western Circuit, the Court adjourned till 10 o'clock, A. M., to-morrow.

The Justices' Courts.

Christo Howard, next Curiosity Printer, and lastly Colonel Williams, a lady of color, was tried before Justice Butt yesterday for bigamy. Her last marriage, which was to Jim Williams, took place on Monday night. She tried to prove that her first match was not one of love, but one of convenience; that she had been deserted by her husband, and that she had reason to believe that he was dead. The court, however, failed to agree with her in this view of the matter, and required her to give a bond of $200 for her appearance at the Superior Court, which she was unable to do.

Alice Johnson, colored, yesterday took out a warrant against Andrew Davis, before Justice Munday, charging him with having seduced her, on the 9th of January, 1873, under a false promise of marriage. The prisoner has been arrested, but on account of the absence of witnesses, the hearing was postponed until 9 o'clock this morning.

Day before yesterday this magistrate sent no less than $200 worth of claims for different variety cases to the Circuit Court, and has already collected about $270. This speaks well for his civil business.

Station House Report.

The police, yesterday, arrested six violators of the city laws, and some of them for offenses which, not at least a little novelty to recommend them.

One was arrested for placing rubbish on the street railroad track, one for hitching mules from the street cars, two for disorderly conduct and quarreling. No State arrests were made.

THE TAX STATISTICS OF FULTON COUNTY FOR 1873.

Increase in Value of Property of Every Kind Over Last Year.

Yesterday afternoon, by the kind permission of Captain A. G. Grier, our efficient Tax Receiver, we were allowed access to his books, and from them gleaned the following interesting facts, which we lay before our public. We would call attention to the subjoined table. In order to show, as clearly as possible the material advancement of our city and county, we have incorporated the returns of 1873, and have given the increase of each particular class of taxable property. It will be seen that our county, and especially Atlanta, has taken immense strides forward since the last returns, and we are satisfied that no county in Georgia, of an equal population, can show the same prosperity.

AGRICULTURAL TABLE.

The following table embraces the agricultural returns of the county for the present year. The returns are entirely exclusive of the city. Had the city been included in many of the returns, would have been more than doubled. The number of acres planted in vineyard is returned as being only one, while there are several vineyards in this city, which embrace a number of acres each. We state this fact in order that the table may be properly understood:

No. of acres planted in cotton.	6,309¾
" " " " wheat.	2,196
" " " " rye.	11
" " " " barley.	2½
" " " " oats.	2,215¾
" " " " corn.	6,156¼
" " " " sweet potatoes.	270 15-16
" " " " Irish potatoes.	971 3 16
" " " " clover and grasses.	136
" " " " vineyards.	1
" " " " orchards.	244¾
Number of sheep in Fulton county.	1,606
" " dogs " " "	699
" " horses and mules in Fulton county.	841
Number of hogs in Fulton county.	3,623
" " cattle " " "	1,950

We are unable to close this article without noticing the extreme neatness and accuracy with which our Receiver keeps his books. He is an able officer, and during the three years that he has been Receiver, the aggregate returns of taxable property increased nearly four millions. We have also been requested to return the thanks of the Receiver to Pat Fitzgibbons, the faithful hall keeper, who has supplied him with desks, as he could not procure an office, and treated him with uniform courtesy.

AN EXCITING RACE.

The Triumph of a "Confederate" Nag—The Saratoga Cup—Joe Daniels' Victory—Particulars of the Race.

From the New York Tribune, July 26.]

The Saratoga cup, a sweepstake of $200 each, p. p., with $1,000 added, of which $200 went to the second horse; two miles and a quarter, was the second race.

Of the fifteen nominations only four came to the post, Colonel McDaniels & Co., entering two, Harry Bassett and Joe Daniels; Pike & McCormack running Wanderer, and J. S. Chamberlin True Blue. The extraordinary style in which Wanderer had won the Westchester and Monmouth Park cups, coupled with home a winner in both races a score of lengths in front, caused him to be looked upon as the certain winner. The illustrious which has attended the stable of the Confederacy ever since its arrival at Saratoga from Long Branch, beginning with the going amiss of the famous filly Kate Pease and followed up by the accident to Springbok in the Travers' Stakes, and the successive defeats of Joe Daniels and Harry Bassett on the first and second days of this meeting, shook the confidence of the public in the once thought to be invincible stable of the Confederacy, and they backed the blue jacket and scarlet sash which had so often been borne to victory over this course, and memorably so in the race last year, when the mighty Longfellow's banner went down in the dust before Harry Bassett, after the most intensely exciting contest this trophy has ever produced. It was thought the days of Henry Bassett and Joe Daniels triumphs were over, and before such a gallant racer as Wanderer they would share the ignominious fate which had awaited Wanderer's antagonists in the Westchester and Monmouth Park cups. A few staunch adherents of the stable remembering how often they had landed their investments on the blue and red felt they could not without a sense of ingratitude, desert the colors of the Confederacy, and in the face of popular opinion stuck pluckily to them and backed the two representatives of the Colonel's stables. The fine condition of True Blue caused many to invest their greenbacks on the white and crimson spots, and their judgment was not far wrong, for he beat the favorite Wanderer in the most decisive manner. Barbee rode him, while Palmer was on Harry Bassett, McCabe on Joe Daniels, and Ross on Wanderer. Pools sold on the race as follows:

Wanderer	$1,600	$1,400	$1,200	$1,200
McDaniels	650	1,100	600	600
True Blue	600	700	450	500

The start was from the head of the home stretch, and after some delay, was effected in good style, Wanderer being off first, with True Blue next, Harry Bassett third, and Joe Daniels last. Harry Bassett went to the front, midway up the stretch, and as he went under the string he was length ahead of Wanderer, who had True Blue at his quarters and Joe Daniels waiting patiently behind until his time come. Going around the upper turn True Blue passed Wanderer and laid at Bassett's quarters as they passed the quarter-pole.

Along the backstretch Bassett still kept up his long powerful sweep of stride, and placed two clear lengths between himself and True Blue, on whose flanks Wanderer was still clinging persistently. The first mile was run from starting point to starting point in exactly 1:53¼. As the horses went under the string the second time Harry Bassett was still leading True Blue a length, while the latter was only a neck in front of Wanderer, with Joe Daniels three lengths away, and the jockey getting the benefit of the mud from the three leading horses to such an extent that it was impossible to distinguish the colors he wore, so covered with dirt were they.

The first mile and a quarter was run in 2:21, and still Bassett, despite the heavy ground, showed no signs of slackening his tremendous pace. At the quarter post he was still a length ahead of True Blue, who had Wanderer almost lapped on him. The partisans of the latter now eagerly looked to see him go up and challenge Bassett, as they had seen him do before in his previous conquests; but they looked in vain, for still the mighty chestnut strode along without any perceptible diminution of his speed, while to their astonishment Joe Daniels closed rapidly on them and lay at the favorite's flanks.

Before the half mile pole was reached a tremendous roar proclaimed that Wanderer had "cracked," and, unable to live the tremendous pace that Bassett had carried them, had fallen into the rear a beaten horse, his opponents leaving him at every stride. Along the lower stretch Joe Daniels swept along full of running, passed True Blue before reaching the three-quarter pole, once they had started, the two miles being run in 3:43, which for such a track was astonishingly fast time, and then waiting on Harry Bassett until midway up the stretch, the latter seeing the race safe was taken in hand and Joe Daniels galloped home an easy winner by a dozen lengths, Bassett securing second money, $200, by an easy half-length before True Blue, and the redoubtable Wanderer fairly beaten off. Time 4:10 3-4, which was remarkable for such a track.

A Private Still.

The Madison Courier tells this of a revenue officer who was sent into the illicit whisky distilling district in Kentucky. He knew illicit distilling was going on, but he could get no basis to work from. Coming to an Irishman who was tolerably drunk, the officer tapped him on the shoulder, and said:

"Me man, do you want to make ten dollars?"

"Is it ten dollars?" said Pat, "sure and I do."

"Then," said the officer, "show me a private still."

"I'll do the same; follow me, yer Honor."

The officer followed across lots and fields to the camp of a company of soldiers that had been sent there to aid the revenue officers. The soldiers were in line—dress parade.

"Do you see that red-headed man?" asked Pat, pointing to one of the soldiers.

"Yes," replied the officer.

"He is," said Pat, "my brother. He's been in the service twelve years. He'll be a corporal after awhile, but he is 'a private still.'"

Ten dollars gone, and no illicit whisky found, moralized the officer as he wended his way back to his hotel.

PURGE, PURIFY AND STRENGTHEN
At one and the same time.

Their research has at last been rewarded by a discovery which full realizes the fondest desires of the medical faculty, and which is justly regarded as the most important triumph that Pharmacy has ever achieved The important desideratum is

Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pill.

Which purify the blood, and remove all corrupt humors and unhealthy accumulations from the body, and yet produces no weakness or prostration whatever, but on the contrary tones the stomach, and invigorates the body during the progress of their operation. They unite the heretofore irreconcilable qualities of a PURIFYING, STRENGTHENING CATHARTIC and PURIFYING TONIC.

Dr. Tutt's Pills are the most active and searching medicine in existence. They at once attack the very root of diseases, and their action is so prompt that in an hour or two after they are taken the patient is aware of their good effects. They may be taken at any time without restraint of diet or occupation; they produce neither nausea, griping or debility, and as a family medicine they have no rival.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN JURUBEBA
BLOOD PURIFIER
Is the Most Powerful Cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and interruption of action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, etc., etc.

When weary and languid from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a Tonic to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

DR. WELLS'
EXTRACT OF JURRUBEBA
is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties: it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and RESTORE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from DEPRAVED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is recommended by medical writers as the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known to the whole range of medicinal plants.

Dr. Calhoun's Liver Pills.

I AM engaged in the Manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last thirty-five years, and has taken precedence over all other Family Preparations. All that have used them say so. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact, should suffice, and that is the want of certificates, and the fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, with the number of convicts ranging from 50 to 75, laboring under all the diseases peculiar to this climate. With but few exceptions, they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say, during that long period, not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

They are recommended to all others from Druggists, Merchants and others, and orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, INTERMITTENT, REMITTENT, BILIOUS, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, NERVOUSNESS, and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yields readily to this powerful remedy.

Price, 50 cents a Box.
